TERMS OF THE POST.

THE BOSTON POST is published every morning, at No. 21, Water Street, Boston, by CHARLES G. GREENE, at four dollars per annum, payable in advance; four dollars and fifty cents, if paid within six months, or five dollars at the end of the year. These conditions will be rigidly adhered to.

POETRY.

MEMORY.

It is fading around me, that shadowy splendour
That haunts the red twilight, the vague and the vain;
Those warm clouds their fugitive blush must surrender,
And colourless melt in the dim air again.
They will leave no remembrance to tell of the glory
Dissolving at sunset away in the west;
They are gone, and the page of the air has no story,
Recalling the beauty with which it was blest.
And thus with our memory—too light are its traces
Of joy or of sorrow experienced of yore;
The shadow of life each soft color effaces,
And the past has one sorrowing echo no more!
Ah! childhood was lovely; but what of its hours,
The bright and the buoyant, what relics have they?
I cannot repaint the green leaves, the glad flowers,
That once made the beauty of earth and of day.
I well can recall the old time blossoms hung o'er me,
The bees and the pale blossoms thick o'er each bough;
But the dreams of my future, that brightened before me,
What were they? I cannot remember them now.
And youth has no chronicle left of its dreaming,
When hope, the sweet alchemist, ruled; and we took
The future on trust, and the present on seeming.
And each old dream wore a bright and glad look.
Methinks it would make the dark altar less dreary,
Could we call back the feelings we formerly knew;
The path where we loiter for flowers is less weary,
Than that which speeds on, the goal only in view.
The heart spends its treasure at once; we should cherish
The thought of our feelings, so live them again;
Too early the bright time of phantasy perishes,
And too soon the guiding is worn from life's chain.
Vain, vain, this desire for the past! To remember
Is not to recall—would to heaven that it were!
Is not a pale mockery of what was so fair.
The hope that betrayed and the love that deceived us,
Could we live did they keep their first early regrets?
Amid all of which time in its course has bereaved us,
Well the heart may rejoice in how much it forgets!

THE PUBLIC.

Of all ideal beings, the most extraordinary is that which we call the public. The public and transubstantiation I hold to be the two greatest mysteries in or out of nature. And there are certain points of resemblance between them. For as the priest creates the one mystery, so the author, or other appellant to the said public, creates the other, and both bow down in worship, real or simulated, before the idol of their own creation. And as every fragment of the wafer, break it into as many as you may, contains in itself the whole entire mystery of transubstantiation, just in the same manner every fractional part of the public assumes to itself the powers, privileges and prerogatives of the whole, as virtually, potentially, and indefeasibly its own. Nay, every individual who deems himself a constituent member of the said public, arrogates them also, and when he professes to be acting pro bono publico, the words mean with him all the good he can possibly get for himself. The old and famous illustration of Hermes may be in part applied to the public—it is a circle of which the centre is every where: in part, I say, for its circumference is defined. It is bounded by language, and has many interstices. It is indeed a confused multiplicity of circles intersecting each other, perpetually in motion and in change. Every man is the centre of some circle, and yet involved in others; he who is not sometimes made giddy by their movements, has a strong head; and he who is not sometimes thrown off his balance by them, stands well upon his legs. Again, the public is like a nest of patent coffins, packed for exportation one within another. There are publics of all sizes—from the genus generalissimum, the great general universal public, whom London is not large enough to hold, to the species specialissima, the little thinking public, which may find room in a nutshell. There is the fashionable public, and the religious public, and the play-going public, and the sporting public, and the commercial public, and the literary public, and the reading public, and heaven knows how many publics more. They call themselves worlds sometimes—as if a certain number of worldlings make a world! He who pays his homage to any or all of these publics is a publican and a sinner.

DOMESTIC INSTRUMENT.—The habitual and indiscriminate use of purgative drugs can only afford a temporary relief, by unmercifully stimulating the digestive organs, which they exhaust of their secretions, and thereby render them incapable of performing, even with this repeated stimulus, their proper function, with the degree of energy requisite to support the body in health. The great utility of Laxatives or Domestic Clysters, the use of which has so long been practised in France and England, is at length so far established in the opinions of the medical profession in this country, as generally to form part of the directions of our most eminent practitioners to their dyspeptic or bilious patients. Hitherto one of the greatest obstacles to the general adoption of Domestic Clysters has been the inconvenient construction and unwieldy size of the instruments employed for this purpose. This instrument may be used by an invalid without assistance, and is so portable as to admit of being carried in the coat pocket without inconvenience. The flexible tube, commonly employed for apparatus of this kind, from its want of durability, having proved a source of great inconvenience, particularly to persons residing in the country, a new kind of tubing is manufactured under the protection of a patent, which is essentially different from that of any other person, and is equally durable and perfect in all climates. Anti-Bank Meeting at Salem.—We published a few days since a brief paragraph in relation to the great Anti-Bank meeting in Salem, on the 31st inst. The official proceedings are now before us. JOHN MORIARTY, Esq. officiated as Chairman, and Isaac Newhall and Stephen Whitmore, jr. as Secretaries. George Wheatland, Esq. offered a series of resolutions sustaining the President in the course he has pursued, and deprecating the restoration of the deposits, which he introduced with able and applicable remarks. A resolution that the mechanics of Salem are opposed to the Bank, &c. was introduced, and supported with appropriate remarks, by Mr. W. B. Pike—and one presenting the thanks of the meeting to the Hon. G. P. Osgood, for his official action and firmness against the Bank, was offered by Mr. Henry Buxton—all of which were adopted with great unanimity, after a speech of much force and ability by ROBERT RANTOUL, Jr. Esq., who was frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause. A committee was appointed to forward to Congress a remonstrance against the re-charter of the Bank, and a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Meeting. A committee of correspondence was also appointed, after which the meeting was dissolved.

A similar meeting was held in Bradford, on the same day, which was organized by the appointment of Eliphalet Kimball, Esq. as Chairman, and Geo. Savary, Secretary. Resolutions were passed, and ordered to be forwarded to Congress, approving the policy of the government in regard to the Bank—condemning the attempt recently made in that congressional district, "by a few disappointed individuals to obtain an expression, in part disapproving the course of the National Administration in relation to certain measures touching the deposit question;" and sustaining the official acts and proceedings of Mr. Osgood, in Congress, in every respect.

We understand that a select committee of the "panic" party have, for some time, had under consideration our suggestion in regard to a revival of the old coffin handbill system of operations. The "distress" cry has become so feeble, that it cannot "discount" any excitement, and the "Committee of Public Safety" seems likely to be a sinecure, unless something can be done towards "raising the wind." Our copy of the "Monumental Inscriptions" is still at the service of the opposition—and we will venture to suggest, that it be conspicuously mounted on a flag staff, and carried by the chief marshal of the day, in deep mourning, when the young men have their proposed meeting to hear the report of their committee. If they would march through the principal streets, with white handkerchiefs to their eyes, and Binn's "Monumental Inscriptions" waving over their heads, it would certainly add to the "panic," and attract many of their idle playmates to join in their patriotic efforts to "preserve the country," who would otherwise stick to their hoops and kites, in preference to attending a public meeting, where they might hear such dreadful stories, that they would be afraid to go to bed alone again for six months. It would be a sight worth looking at, to see so many little innocents all in a row, with their Sunday clothes on, holding up their little heads, and listening to such of their number as should be appointed to "speak the pieces," and tell of "war, pestilence and famine." And in case the prime movers in the farce should think best to get up another memorial, they might get six very proper signatures from the placard in question—it would not be the first or second time that names have leaped from the grave-stones to adorn and add strength to similar documents.

P. S. We believe the six militia men were all white; but if they were not, the committee, judging from their published creed, "will not venture to refuse them."

Business.—The Pennsylvania says that the merchants in that city have received more cash during the past two months, than during the same period of either of the last two past years.

All the spring stock of bricks has been sold, and at an advance of fifty cents per thousand on last spring's prices.

Mr Oliver has published a letter in the Boston Courier relative to the Lynn Memorial, &c.—but as he has not proved his previous statements, nor controverted those which appeared in the Post, his epistle does not require further notice.

"Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad."

The following moreau is from the Richmond Whig, edited by one Mr Pleasants, who hunted all over Liverpool to find Buenos Ayres, and came home disappointed at last:—

"What could a King do more, if we had one; and who would not rather have a King and a gentleman for his master, than a ferocious and unlettered bully, and his hellish crew, the Kitchen Cabinet!"

The Girard Bank does not appear quite so willing to give up the deposits as it pretended to be—it has said nothing to the government yet upon the subject.

The New York papers copy the story set afloat by the Lynn Committee. Thus scandal flies.

The editor of the Dunstable Telegraph has been marring his fair visage by running against a post—he only followed the example of his party.

The Chancellor of New Jersey has granted an injunction upon the Directors of the Bank of New Brunswick which has recently stopped payment.

Gov. Wolf, of Pennsylvania, who has been seriously indisposed for some time past, is now convalescent.

Mr Tazewell was installed Governor of Virginia on Tuesday last.

POLICE COURT.

[Monday.]

Like mother, like daughter.—Mrs Judith Parsons, and her daughter, Mrs Sarah Whitney, were severally and solemnly charged with being common drunkards. Mrs Parsons, who, by the way, should be styled "My Lady of the Burning Lamp," is a tall, portly dame, about 50 years of age, with a majestic double chin—and such a face! O! it is a "perpetual triumph—an everlasting bon-fire." It is impossible to gaze on its dazzling hue for an instant, without being unconsciously betrayed into a parody of one of Moore's Melodies—

"Thou art, O RUM! the life and light
Of both these crimson cheeks we see;
Their glow by day, their gleam by night,
Are but reflections caught from thee."

Mrs Whitney's complexion is the very reverse of her mother's—she is as pale as the lily of the valley, that bends, like herself, to the breeze. Neither rum nor brandy ever lent her intangible cosmetic virtues to tinge her parched cheeks with a rosy blush, as glowing as a cloud in the west, at sunset, like her mother's Phœbean front. She undoubtedly strengthens her stomach with gin—the real "Weeps brand"—the "true Hippocrene," unwaters—that blessed beverage, of all others, sanctified and immortalized by Byron, whose great name and example should be a shield and protection for those who imitate his devotion to the juice of the juniper. On that account, Sarah's aberrations from the perpendicular must not be further enlarged upon, or publicly censured.

Thus much for their persons—now for the proof. On Saturday morning, a neighbor heard murder cried in their dwelling house—and upon entering he discovered the younger bacchanalian prostrate on the floor, bleeding freely at the munn, and her mother standing over, delivering a war talk, and flourishing her long, brawny arms, with the vengeance and velocity of a windmill; close by lay an empty flask, which he had the curiosity to smell, when his nasal organs were saluted with a long drawn snuff of the pregnant cause of all the mischief. Upon inquiry, he learned from them, that the daughter had suggested to her mother, the propriety of her joining a temperance society, which she considered as an insinuation, and treated her accordingly. The witness took the stand a second time, to assure the court, that he had "never seen such a pair of female women before." The court announced a sentence of three months in the House of Correction to the couple; but the old one was "sartin sure she never was the worse for liquor;" the Judge attempted to close the debate, by observing—"Your countenance is a burning proof against you." "Appearances are deceitful," was her incorrigible reply, as she was hustled out of court.

A Bruiser.—John Buck, a pock pitted, throat whiskered rum tippler, was clearly proved to be a common drunkard, and a most uncommon bawler when drunk. On one occasion, when well primed with Dutch courage, he broke one man's doors in; on another he knocked a man's teeth in, and threw down another, and broke his ribs in by jumping on him.—6 months in the House of Correction.

"I want my hat."—Two laborers were last evening buried beneath a partition wall which fell while they were employed in removing iron and rubbish from the building now about to be demolished opposite the Post Office. Fortunately both escaped without material injury—the last one extricated from his perilous situation expressed great anxiety for his castor, and vociferated most loudly, "I want my hat!" which it appears had been lost or mis-laid, amidst the wreck of matter. Had we been there our voice would have made a most "melodious echo"—yea, verily, echo would have replied, "I want my hat."

Miss Charlotte Barnes, of whom some of our neighbors, as well as ourself, did not think a great deal, as a theatrician, the New York Standard says, "possesses a correctness of taste, refinement of manners, and elegance of deportment, which must inevitably place her at the summit of the profession she has selected."

The premium of two hundred dollars, offered by the editors of the Philadelphia Saturday Courier, for the best original Tale, has been awarded to Joseph R. Chandler, Esq. editor of the U. S. Gazette, and fifty dollars, for the best Poem, to E. S. B. Canning, of Gill, in this state. Mr Chandler is an excellent scholar, and a polished and able writer, but a very bad politician. This is as much as we can afford until after the N. York Election.

The Baltimoreans are in ecstasies with their new Aeronaut, Mr. Mills, who made his first ascension on the 2d inst. The Republican says he reached a higher elevation and went further than Mr Durant. Col. Wildfire boasts that he can dive deeper and stay under water longer than any man in all "Kaintuck"—we should like to see how far apart he and Mr. Mills could get on a perpendicular line.

The Pilgrim of the Rhine. Bulwer's new novel, will soon appear from the press of the Messrs Harpers.

The execution of Alexander Larrabee, for the murder of Leander Shaw, took place in Plattsburg, on the 28th ult. in the presence of a vast concourse of spectators.

A gentleman, named John Smith, supposed to belong to Baltimore, committed suicide in Philadelphia, on Wednesday, 2d inst. by throwing himself from his chamber window.

Mr L. N. Austin, of Lynn, was drowned near Nantucket on the 1st inst. by falling from his boat while fishing.

Mr Audubon is about to visit England, the papers say. He is now in Philadelphia.

The journeymen carpenters of Troy have struck for higher wages.

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, on Friday, the report of the Select Committee on the contested election of a Senator from Rhode Island, with accompanying documents, was ordered to be printed. The bill authorizing the Governors of the several States to transmit, by mail, certain papers and documents free of postage, was read the third time and passed, by yeas and nays, 27 to 1.

In the House, Mr Cornin, of Ohio, spoke upon Mr Mardis' resolutions until 12 o'clock, when the House proceeded to the consideration of the Commutation Bill, reported by the committee on the Revolutionary Claims. Mr Baylies and Mr Cramer spoke on this question. Before the latter had concluded, the House, at 1 o'clock, resumed the consideration of the report of the committee of Ways and Means on the subject of the deposits, when Mr McDuffie continued and concluded his remarks. Mr Mason, of Va. then obtained the floor, and after some brief remarks, moved the previous question—this motion was seconded by the House, 114 to 105. The motion for the previous question was sustained, 114 to 107.

The main question was then put, having been divided, so as to vote separately on each resolution. The question on the adoption of the first resolution, that "the Bank of the U. States ought not to be re-chartered," was then put, and carried in the affirmative, 135 to 82. The second resolution, that "the public deposits ought not to be restored to the Bank of the U. States," was then adopted, 119 to 104. The third resolution, "that the State Banks ought to be continued as the places of deposit of the public money, and that it is expedient for Congress to make further provision by law, prescribing the mode of selection, the securities to be taken, and the manner and terms on which they are to be employed," was then adopted, 107 to 105.

The Fourth was then read as follows:—
"4. Resolved, That, for the purpose of ascertaining, as far as practicable, the cause of the commercial embarrassment and distress complained of by numerous citizens of the United States, in sundry memorials which have been presented to Congress at the present session, and of inquiring whether the charter of the Bank of the United States has been violated, and also what corruption and abuses have existed in its management; whether it has used its corporate power, or money to control the press, to interfere in politics, or influence elections, and whether it has had any agency through its management or money, in producing the existing pressure, a select committee be appointed to inspect the books and examine into the proceedings of the said Bank, who shall report whether the provisions of the charter have been violated or not, and also what abuses, corruptions, or malpractices have existed in the management of said Bank, and that the said committee be authorized to send for persons and papers, and to summon and examine witnesses on oath, and to examine into the affairs of the Bank and Branches; and they are further authorized to visit the principal Bank, or any of its Branches, for the purpose of inspecting the books, correspondence, accounts, and other papers connected with its management or business; and that the said Committee be required to report the result of such investigation, together with the evidence they may take, at as early a day as possible." And decided by Yeas and Nays as follows—Yeas 174, Nays 41.

Mr Polk moved that the committee consist of seven members, which was agreed to.

Last evening, between 7 and 8 o'clock a man was heard bawling out "murder" from the roof of a house in Race street. He soon got through the scuttle and ran along the roofs of several three story houses still crying murder. At length he came to a house only two stories in height and here dashed himself down head foremost and fell with considerable violence to the ground. The persons looking on at his perilous flight and fall, stood horrified at the affair, but what must have been their astonishment when he sprang upon his feet and ran actively along, still repeating murder. He was now seized by the people and borne back to the house where he was first seen, and to which he had, but a short time previously been admitted as a boarder. The persons of the house permitted him to be dressed, (he had but his shirt on during his insane race) after which he was taken to the hospital. It is supposed that he was under the influence of Mania a Potu.—Philad. Chron.

Jno. R. Wiggins, a young man of considerable promise and of respectable connections, was lately shot by a young man named Glover, at Montgomery, Alabama. The facts detailed show a degree of cowardice and malignity on the part of the assailant rarely developed. The cause of the murder was rivalry in courtship. It appears Glover called on the deceased and asked him in a friendly manner to take a walk, and when they had got beyond the confines of the town he drew a pistol and deliberately shot him; and mounting a horse which he had ready for the occasion, fled, but was pursued and at last overtaken.

Foundling.—On Wednesday evening, a child about a year old was found placed behind the hall door of a house in Beekman st. with a piece of paper containing the following words pinned to its clothes:—"The mother of this child not being able to support it, has placed it under the protection of the public. Its name is Witworth Cunard."—N. Y. Journal Com.

The Voice of the Country!—Under this appropriate head the Albany Argus gives a column and a half of the most gratifying intelligence with respect to the result of the country elections. Every where the cause of Democracy is triumphing.

Public Hands.—We learn from the Columbus Sentinel, that a sale of part of the public hands took place at La Grange, on the 17th ult. There were nineteen sold at an aggregate amount of $12,268 75—averaging each $645 72.

Strange stories are circulated by the foreign papers concerning the Queen Dowager of Spain and her Tilbury friend, Lieutenant—It would appear that the dignity of Regent possesses an unfortunate influence over the morals of the Princesses of the Two Sicilies.

Liberty.—The Legislature have just passed a bill authorizing an annual contribution from the State Treasury of five hundred dollars to the Catholic Orphan Asylum in this city.—N. Y. Post.

The ship Sarah & Caroline, which was rumored to have been cast away on the coast of England, arrived at New Orleans on the 16th ult.

From late English papers.

The annexed paragraph is taken from an English paper:—

Lost at Sea.—A bottle was picked up off Plymouth, a few days ago, containing the following memorandum, dated "At sea, April 26, 1833:—Mary Anne, (for South Seas) Capt. Westley, from New York, destroyed by fire at midnight, through the Captain's cruel and drunken conduct, who was killed in the fire, fifty or sixty leagues from St. Jago. Some burnt, with the first officer, Mr. Wilson, who got us clear off the ship before she blew up. Our boats are so full we never can reach St. Jago. Pray let this be known, and mercy upon us in this boat—Miss Andrews, two children, Miss Manson, Miss Peat, Miss Doane, and Miss Watson, of the United States, nine seamen, and Mr Wilson, late first officer, 200 tons."

A new Language.—A Committee of the members of the Academy of the Fine Arts, at Paris, have just made a report on the scheme of M. Sudre, who has invented a system of language by music. It appears that the committee have found that this new language is capable of expressing all our ideas—that these are capable of being communicated by sounds, characters and gestures—that it is calculated to communicate those ideas very near, or very rapidly to a distance—that it may be used for open or secret communications—and, lastly, that the system of sounds, and consequently the expressions of the thoughts, were not liable to change, but would be in their nature permanent. The committee were struck particularly with the advantages secured for a remote communication, by which they declared that M. Sudre had done the State some service. It is not to be wondered at that all the members resolved to recommend M. Sudre to Government, in consequence of the universality of the application of this lingual telegraph, for it is capable of being put into practice on sea or land, and either at night or by day.

Death of a Giant.—The Taunton (Eng.) Courier contains an account of the death and funeral of Joseph Neal Sewell, the Lincolnshire giant, who was born at Horncastle, in 1805. Sewell died on the 4th, and his remains were interred in the Church yard of Taunton St Mary Magdalen. He had a great horror of anatomical operation after death; and his friends in deference to his wish, refused many lucrative offers for his body, and had quick lime thrown into the grave. The deceased was seven feet four inches high and weighed thirty-seven stones, or five hundred and eighteen pounds. Sewell's dress required five yards of broadcloth for his coat, five yards of cloth and linen for his waistcoat, seven yards of patent cord for his trousers, his shoes were fourteen inches and a half long, and six inches and a half wide.

Accuracy of the English Press.—A late number of the Liverpool Chronicle says:—"Mr. C. Kemble has just returned to this country from America, where he has reaped a golden harvest. He will only remain in England a short time, and then return to his daughter. Miss Fanny Kemble was married to Mr. Butler in June last, and the marriage will be publicly acknowledged next June, by which time the whole of her engagements with the American managers will have expired."

Seven thousand and eighty illegitimate children were born in Paris during the year 1832.

A Saver in a neighboring town commences an advertisement thus:—"Man wants but little heard below, 'Nor wants that little long."

Tremont Theatre.—The engagement of the Kembles is drawing to a close. They will appear in the "Inconstant," this evening.

COUNTY COMMITTEE.—There will be an adjourned meeting of the Democratic Republican County Committee at Democratic Hall, THIS EVENING at 7 o'clock. A punctual attendance is requested.

On the 21st. March, at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me. Mr Nathaniel Holman, a student of medicine, in the 27th year of his age. His death was caused by a slight wound made in the hand while dissecting. His body was conveyed by his brother, Dr. S. Holman, to Canada, where, followed by his aged parents, and afflicted relatives, and numerous friends, he was borne to his grave. Thus the spot "o'er which his infancy wept," and where in the wayward childhood, and youth he has often rambled, is now the place of his grave! The following remarks upon his death, are copied from a letter to his brother—the Rev. J. W. Holman of this city:—"He was one of the first scholars in his class; was on his last term; and his death much lamented by the Professors of the Medical College, and his class. No man in Maine had less enemies, if any had more friends—none ever stood higher, promised fairer, or died more generally lamented."

A SUPERIOR ARTICLE FOR SHAVING. SAPONACEOUS COMPOUND.

For sale by MAYNARD & NOYES, Agents, 13 Cornhill. M. & N. are happy to say that the testimony of many gentlemen in this city and vicinity correspond fully with the following recommendation from Dr. Reese, of New York.

August 5, 1830. I have used the "Saponaceous Compound" of Mr. Prentiss, and find it more pleasant to the face, than any of the shaving soaps I have ever employed, either foreign or domestic. I have no occasion for warm water, and the operation of shaving has lost with me half its inconvenience, since I availed myself of this useful invention. As a mild emollient, and soothing application to the skin, I highly esteem it, and recommend it to my patients as a medicament in cutaneous diseases. Respectfully yours, D. M. REESE.
